PROBLEM/SOLUTION FIT.

Validating Problem

Do they care?
Do they need it?
Do they have budget for it?
Who really is “they”?

Validating Solution

Does our solution solve their problem?
Do they understand our solution?
Would they pay for it?

Testing the circle

Provide evidence showing “what” customers care about (the circle) before focusing on “how” to help them (the square)

A portrait of Kevin Systrom, a man with short brown hair, wearing a red and blue plaid shirt over a white t-shirt. He is looking slightly to his right with a thoughtful expression.

“The hard part is finding the problem to solve.”

Kevin Systrom

When i say problems i mean Jobs to be Done

“Job to Be Done”

Products are bought because they solve a “job to be done”.

Therefore not every “problem” is “negative”.

Get out of the building to find out!

- WHO are your customers?
- WHY would they buy?

Testing the square

Provide evidence showing that your customers care about how your products and services kill pains and create gains

In order to get here, you need to GET OUT OF THE BUILDING!

WHAT DO YOUR PRODUCT FEATURES DO?

A GAIN is a CUSTOMER SOLUTION...

The value proposition is about SOLVING a CUSTOMER PROBLEM or SATISFYING a CUSTOMER NEED.

VALUE PROPOSITION:
You are not building it in isolation!

Your PRODUCTS and SERVICES...

What are your GAIN CREATORS?
